Ends 6 Feb 2017 7:34:31 PM PST

This progression may last a few weeks before and after it is exact. During it, you'll be doing a lot more thinking than usual about how you feel. Progressed Moon coming to Mercury is symbolic of your right brain (the intuitive, feeling mind) meeting your left brain (the rational, logical mind). When these two conjoin, a temporary linkage is formed and your thoughts and feelings become mixed.

It all depends on how "together" your emotional life is right now. If you've been rationalizing how you feel, or have been denying the reality of certain feelings, then you may experience nervousness, and your sleep may be disturbed. If all is well, then you will find ways to express your feelings, and your understanding of your emotional life will reach new heights. The trick is to think about how you are feeling, and to move feelings into the conscious mind. Specific areas where this progression may be felt strongly include family and home life, relations with females, mental work, signings and paperwork, and various forms of transportation.
